Family to lead ground search for daughter

Request. Mother says she hopes public will help solve cold case

DAVE BAXTER
 winnipeg@metronews.ca

A Manitoba woman says Winnipeg police have not done enough to help her find her missing daughter, so she and her family are taking the search into their own hands.

Helen Bignell and her daughter, Janet Lowther, have organized an independent ground search to try to find Amanda Sophia Bartlett, who went missing from the streets of Winnipeg in 1997. She was just 17 years old.

The pair, who live in The Pas, are coming to Winnipeg to conduct the two-day search on July 28 and 29, starting at 6 a.m. both days.

The search will begin on

Amanda Sophia Bartlett CONTRIBUTED

King Edward Street and Jefferson Avenue and then head north.

Bignell said they have been offered no assistance by the police for the search, adding she feels they have never been helpful with her family.

"Do they care? Maybe if it was a white person they would be there," she said.

Seeking closure

"We have an idea of where her body is by talking to people who saw her last. I need to find her, for closure."

Helen Bignell, mother of missing girl

"The police work seven days a week, but aren't even going to be there."

At a press conference in May, Winnipeg police patrol Sgt. Monica Stothers denied that race is an issue in missing-persons cases.

"We are concerned for every missing individual and for anyone to suggest that we are less concerned because of a certain background ... is emphatically incorrect."

Lowther said she is hoping for at least 100 people to help with the search and is asking the public to show up if they would like to help.

He's a poet and he knows it (can be boring)

Jem Rolls: Ten Starts and an End
Jem Rolls
Venue 14

Be honest now — when's the last time you said to yourself, "Gosh, I had an awful lot of fun at that performance poetry show!"

If the answer is "never," you owe it to yourself to see Ten Starts and an End, which shows Fringe legend Jem Rolls not just at his fiery best, but also at his funniest, as he takes on everything from the battle between young and old to environmental catastrophe and rampant narcissism.

As is usual for his poetry shows, this one is a celebration of the power of language. "In the beginning was the word," he starts, "and it still runs free." His command of wordplay, often delivered at an impossibly rapid pace, is dazzling to hear.

And there's a playful side to Rolls here as well. "You're not meant to enjoy it!" he hisses in one poem, portraying a mother talking to her child. "It's poetry!"

Trust me, you're meant to enjoy it — and you will.

Little Lady
Sandrine Lafond
Venue 1

You wouldn't think that a wizened, cackling, lizard-like woman, sniffing the air with her tongue like a snake, would make an endearing heroine. But it's testimony to her talents that performer Sandrine Lafond's clown creation is just that.

Dressed in an orange swimsuit, fur stole, huge circular glasses and matching orange kerchief, Lafond's clown begins as a gnarled crone. But we watch as she undergoes transformations, first into a hypersexualized young woman and finally into the Little Lady.

It can certainly be confounding at points (I still can't make much sense of the video segment that ends the show), but the sheer joy of seeing Lafond's remarkable physical clowning (directed by Mump and Smoot's John Turner) makes up for that. In her wordless performance, she's by turns grotesque and graceful, creepy and sweet, but always a delight to watch.

The Ballad of Herbie Cox
Roland Cox, Veronica Chiu
Venue 1

It's amazing what you can find out about your family when you ask. That's what the husband-and-wife team of Roland Cox and Veronica Chiu did — they interviewed their parents and grandparents to piece together their family past. And what they discovered may not exactly be shocking, but they have turned it all into a sweetly charming piece of physical theatre. Chiu and Cox are dancers, so that's the primary medium they use to tell their parents' and grandparents' stories. They incorporate some brief monologues, which are the show's less successful moments.

App the next step in fan frivolity?

Local innovation.
Smartphone screens to be used to create digital images in stands

LAUREN PARSONS
winnipeg@metronews.ca

A new app in Winnipeg may provide fans and concert-goers with a whole new way to support their team or event.

Called Fannex, the app allows large pictures to be created with hundreds of cellphone screens gathered in one place.

"You're taking mobile-device screens and treating them like pixels," said Fannex creator Kamel Leslie. "The stands become a virtual screen to project images and videos."

Leslie thought of and patented the idea two years ago, and has since been working with different developers to create the software.

"We've been running private trials, and we're looking at local teams and events to partner with for trials," he said.

Once the software is perfected, the idea will be to sell a licence to teams or touring artists, who can promote the Fannex experience to their fans.

"For example, if a sports team wanted their logo in the stands all the way around the venue," said Leslie.

While in the trial stage, Leslie is hoping to draw a crowd of 200 people to create a Canada flag in the stands of the MTS Centre. He said it's basically the same as a computer screen — the more people who come out, the higher the resolution.

"Right now we have about 50 or 60 people signed up," he said. "When you're bringing people out strictly to do a trial, it's more difficult than when people are already going to an event."

Be a part of it

The next Fannex trial is on July 25, at 8 p.m. at the MTS Centre.

- Winnipeggers who have a smartphone can register for the trial at trial.fannexlive.com.

Hezbollah blamed in deadly bus attack against Israeli tourists

Bulgaria. Israeli PM threatens retaliation after five Israelis, driver and bomber killed

A lanky, long-haired man with a fake Michigan driver's licence carried out a deadly suicide attack on a bus full of Israeli vacationers, Bulgarian officials said Thursday.

Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu blamed the attack on Iranian-backed Hezbollah, a Lebanese Shiite Muslim guerrilla group, and threatened retaliation. Seven people — five Israelis, the Bulgarian driver and the bomber — died in the blast Wednesday.

Although no group claimed responsibility, Israel has attributed a series of attacks on its citizens around the world in recent months to Iran and its Shiite proxies, threatening to escalate a shadow war between the two arch-enemies.

Hezbollah used suicide attackers against Israeli troops during the occupation of Lebanon, but does not have a history of suicide strikes abroad.

On Thursday, Iran's state TV called Israel's claims that it was responsible for the Bulgarian attack "ridiculous" and "sensational."

The attack occurred shortly after the Israelis boarded a bus outside the airport in the Black Sea resort town of Burgas, a popular destination for Israeli tourists — particularly for high school graduates before they are drafted into military service.

Bulgarian Interior Minister Tsvetan Tsvetanov said the backpack contained the bomb, which detonated in the luggage compartment of the bus.

The bomber was believed to have been about 36 years old and had been in the country between four and seven days, Tsvetanov said without elaborating.

"We cannot exclude the possibility that he had logistical support on Bulgarian territory," the minister said.

Officials were using DNA samples to try to establish his identity. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rising bank fees turning Canadians off

Survey. Percentage of customers satisfied by the performance of their bank drops from last year

Canadian bank customers surveyed in an annual poll are less satisfied with their financial institutions than they were a year ago, at least partly due to the rising fees they're being charged.

The survey from J.D. Power and Associates, released Thursday, found that Frustration, confusion

"Not only are customers frustrated with changes to their fee structure, but many are also confused by the changes."

Lubo Li, senior director of financial services at J.D. Power the percentage of customers who say they will "definitely" reuse their bank in the future declined by four percentage points since a year ago.

And the number of respondents who said they would "definitely" recommend their bank dropped five percentage points from last year.

At least part of the rising discontent was tied to a greater number of customers who have been slapped with higher fees, with 27 per cent of respondents saying their charges went up this year, compared with 17 per cent in 2011.

Many of the respondents also said they had a lower overall opinion of the reliability and financial stability of their banks.

The annual J.D. Power survey polled 12,000 Canadians who use either banks or credit unions. Included were Royal Bank, Scotiabank, CIBC, Bank of Montreal and TD Bank.

Indian Suzuki factory shut down after deadly riot

Security guards stand near a burnt-down reception block of Maruti Suzuki's factory in Manesar, near New Delhi, India, on Thursday. India's largest passenger carmaker shut the 550,000-vehicle-a-year plant — one of two factories in India — after rioting sparked by a labour dispute killed one person and injured dozens of others. The company is still trying to identify the body found charred beyond recognition in a conference room. Labour unrest is a growing concern in India, as soaring inflation squeezes worker salaries even as mass media and conspicuous consumption stoke aspirations. The widespread use of contract workers by companies eager to sidestep India's strict labour laws adds to friction. SAURABH DAS/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fire fears force recall of 2013 Escapes

Ford Motor Co. is telling Canadian and U.S. owners of one version of the brand-new Ford Escape not to drive the SUVs until dealers can fix fuel lines that can crack and spill gasoline, causing engine fires.

The company issued the unusual warning on Thursday and said it is recalling 2013 Escapes equipped with 1.6-litre four-cylinder engines. Ford says it has three reports of fires: Two at the factory and one while a customer was driving an Escape. No one has been injured. The recall affects 11,500 Escapes in the U.S. and Canada. Only 4,800 have been sold to customers.

Canadians warm to single-serve coffee

Watch out, Tim Hortons and Starbucks.

The coffee industry's push to sell machines that make single-serve specialty brews have upped the amount of java Canadians are drinking at home.

Coffee drinkers average two cups per day and two-thirds of them are brewing some their drinks at home, said Robert Carter, executive director of food service at the NPD Group, on Thursday. A new report, "What's Brewing in the Canadian Coffee Market: A Consumer Perspective," suggests auto-drip coffeemakers are still dominant for in-home, morning preparation but single-serve machines are being revved up in the afternoons, evenings and later at night.

Over a quarter of Canadian coffee drinkers (27 per cent) said they sip coffee at home more than they did last year, and the same percentage stated they now consume the beverage less when they're out.

Coffee shops are not in hot water yet, however. Canadians still love to go out for coffee, especially to quick-serve restaurants in the morning for a cup of joe and a breakfast sandwich.

Over the last year there were 1.7-billion servings of coffee consumed in these restaurants, a three per cent increase over the year before. In fact, Canadians quaff more coffee outside of home per capita than any other country except Italy.

Brewed cups are where the coffee shops are mostly cashing in. When Canadians visit their local coffee houses, 80 per cent buy a quick brew rather than an espresso or an espresso-based beverage.

Q2. Lower growth seen in consumer debt: Equifax

Consumer debt growth was about 30 per cent lower in the second quarter than a year earlier — the biggest slowdown since before the recession, according to a consumer credit study released Thursday.

Equifax Canada's quarterly consumer credit trends report found that consumer indebtedness, excluding mortgage debt, grew 3.1 per cent year-over-year in the second quarter, down from 4.4 per cent in the same period of 2011.

The study also found that high-interest credit card debt fell by 3.8 per cent in the quarter and consumer bankruptcies were down 4.5 per cent from a year earlier. Meanwhile, bank loans and lines of credit showed very moderate growth compared to a year ago. And while consumers continued to take on debt, it is encouraging that the rate of acceleration is moderating significantly, said Nadim Abdo, vice-president of consulting and analytical services at Equifax Canada.

"For the last couple of years we have seen almost double-digit growth in some cases. It slowed down a bit last year, but we have never seen it slow down as much as we have (in the second quarter) probably for the past five or six years," he said. THE CANADIAN PRESS

What Direction Do You Face?

By Steven Sarens

I hope everyone is enjoying the weekend and the weather! With this warm weather some people wonder how much would they use a three season sunroom, as some decks are too hot now. Wouldn't a sunroom be even hotter? The answer is - yes and no. The two biggest factors in how warm a sunroom will get are the direction it faces and the overall design of the room.

Some people think the south is the hottest but it's actually the west side. Facing south, you get sun directly on the glass for a few hours in the morning and a few hours in the evening but during the hot summer months between 10:00 am and 6:00 pm (the hottest part of the day) the sun is almost directly overhead, with the roof giving you shade, making it cooler than a deck alone. However, in the winter when the sun is much lower, you now get that solar gain which greatly extends your time outside. Rooms facing west tend to be a little hotter as the sun is setting it hits the glass more directly causing solar gain (on top of having the heat all day, unlike the east side). Designs with as much screen as possible on these sides helps to reduce solar gain. Also screens right up to the ceiling are beneficial as hot air rises and will become trapped in these "dead air" spaces. During winter these rooms pick up solar gain and again greatly extend your outdoor living season. The north side is the coolest side of all but will not extend the season quite as long as the other three sides (without heat). Another interesting fact is that no matter how many windows with screens you have, opening all of them is not always the answer. Sometimes less is more - opening certain windows at certain times will actually improve air flow as you create a wind tunnel effect.

No matter what side you face, the positives outweigh the negatives, which is why every room we built will bring us 3 to 5 referrals. If you would like more info, contact us at 940-3030 or visit our factory for a tour.

1 Flag raiser. Our Canadian athletes take to the world stage starting next week at the Summer Olympics in London. Veteran triathlete and two-time Olympic medallist Simon Whitfield from Victoria will be the Canadian flag bearer for the opening ceremony. You can follow the team on Twitter @CDNOlympicTeam. Go Canada go!

2 Carrie Underwood surprise. Restaurant-goers (myself included) at a pub in Peterborough, Ont., got quite the shock Saturday night when country-music star Carrie Underwood walked in with her hubby, NHL player Mike Fisher. Fisher's brother had tied the knot earlier that day, and a big group from the wedding reception — including the famous couple — showed up there to party. And, no, she didn't sing for us.

3 The Dark Knight Rises. Holy hype, Batman! RottenTomatoes.com for the first time in its history was forced to block users from making comments on a film this week after critics received threatening comments for writing negative reviews about the movie. "It just got to be too much hate based on reactions to reviews of movies that people hadn't even seen," said the site's editor. The film opens Friday.

4 Microsoft marketplace. Microsoft is opening a new retail location at the Yorkdale mall in Toronto in the fall, the site of its first international retail expansion. Apparently the city has the right demographics for the company — a solid mix of families and tech enthusiasts. They do have some stiff competition in the mall, however: An Apple store.

5 The Bachelorette finale. The season finale airs this Sunday, and fans are speculating about whether Emily will choose Arie or Jef. Or whether she'll choose neither. Or whether she'll choose both? Hey, she can't do that! Speculation is it's Jef. In any case, several of Emily's castoffs will rebound on The Bachelor Pad, which premieres Monday.

6 Vancouver's congestion. Vancouver is Canada's most traffic-congested city — second only to Los Angeles in North America, according to a congestion index. Vancouver drivers take on average 30 per cent longer to make a trip at congested times than when roads and highways are free-flowing. Toronto was ninth at 22 per cent. Now I feel so much better commuting on the 401.

7 Springsteen and McCartney. Concert organizers pulled the plug on the music legends after they played past their sound curfew at London's Hyde Park. They were on stage together and about to complete the show when their microphones went silent. If I'm singing, you pull the plug right away. If it's The Boss with a Beatle, you never pull it.

8 Marissa Mayer, CEO. Previously one of the top executives at Google, she was announced as the new CEO of Yahoo this week, making her one of the most powerful women in corporate America. Shortly after tweeting "I'm incredibly excited to start my new role at Yahoo! tomorrow," she tweeted another surprise: "Another piece of good news today - @zackbogue and I are expecting a new baby boy!" Girl power!

9 Setting off the censor. Forty-one-year-old Jonah Falcon was stopped by security at San Francisco International Airport last week because of a bulging "package" in his pants. Turns out it wasn't a weapon — but rather his anatomy. Yes, he's the world-record-holder for largest recorded penis: Nine inches flaccid, 13.5 inches erect. Now this is one thing guys would be willing to be stopped for.

10 Rich Kids of Instagram. A Tumblr blog called The Rich Kids of Instagram has started up, which shows photos of rich kids from the likes of the Hamptons, Beverly Hills and the Big Apple doing things rich kids do — like flying in private planes and driving fancy cars. They're the children of the one per cent. Follow them on Twitter as well at @richkidssofinsta.

11 Fifty Shades of Grey effect. Total E-Bound Publishing has introduced Clandestine Classics — with literary gems such as Jane Eyre and Pride and Prejudice getting an erotic makeover — believing there is an untapped market among a new generation for racy versions of the 19th-century novels by the likes of Charlotte Brontë and Jane Austen. Enough already with the Fifty Shades of overreaction!

Wine corks used to create art

Anyone who truly loves wine will know about that insatiable desire to collect corks of your favourite bottles of red and white wine. Yet hoarding all those pieces of tree bark for sentimental value could be a sign of a pretty mischievous habit.

Here, artist Scott Gundersen shows how to use those corks to beautiful effect. The 33-year-old "up-cycles" thousands of used wine corks into amazing portraits. The portrait Grace, pictured, is made up of a staggering 9,217 wine corks and almost double that amount in nails, which hold the corks in place.

METRO

An eye for colour

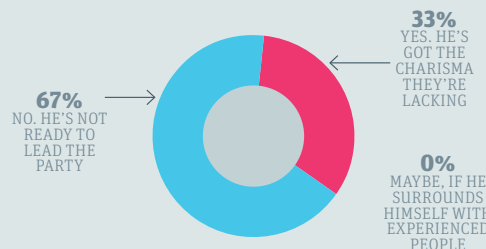

Do you have to paint the corks?

That would be a terribly time-consuming thing, so I use the wine-tainted corks exactly as they are, with one exception. My Rwandan friend Grace, the subject of this portrait, has dark black hair and it is very difficult to find corks dark enough to replicate that. So to have enough dark corks I bought some wine that creates a very dark stain. I boiled it on the stove to concentrate the colour and then dyed a batch of corks before placing them onto my nail board.

The final installment of Chris Nolan's Batman trilogy is missing one thing — a great villain. HANDOUT

Reel Guys

CROUSE AND
MARK BRESLIN

Bring on the bad guys

The Dark Knight Rises. The finale in the Nolan trilogy is reminiscent of the beginning — but it needs a better villain

Richard: Mark, this story seemed like it played out in real life on our streets, albeit without capes, gadgets and murderous villains. When Selina purrs "You're all going to wonder how you ever thought you could live so large, and leave so little for the rest of us," into Bruce's ear, it sounds ripped from the headlines. Such is the timeliness of the film, but is this a summer blockbuster, or a treatise on the haves and the have-nots?

Mark: The movie comes out squarely on the side of law, order, and social hierarchy.

Chris Nolan is smart enough to know that if he wants to make blockbusters he isn't going to get financing from the 99 per cent. So the politics of the film are a bit confused, but the rest of it works. It's smart, if a bit talky, and beautifully cast. The big question is: Is it as good as The Dark Knight?

RC: I think it is more easily comparable to Batman Begins. Both those movies have the same kind of tone. As for The Dark Knight, I'd have to say it's as good, but in a different way. It's a more structured, linear film, mainly because the villain is more straightforward. Bane is a troublemaker — he's one part modern day terrorist, two parts Attila the Hun — but he lacks the Joker's unpredictability, which is the thing that made the middle movie such a treat.

MB: Yes, what's missing from this film is a great villain. It's hard to enjoy Bane through his face mask — Darth Vader he's not. Instead of The Joker, we now have The Mumbler. And many of the characters' motivations seemed unclear to me, especially Catwoman, although I liked Anne Hathaway in the role. She gets the best lines AND the best outfits. But it's Joseph Gordon-Levitt that really occupies the heart of the movie. He's the only one that seems human in it, so kudos to him.

RC: Agreed about Gordon-Levitt but I liked Bane's slightly nutty Shakespearean villain, even if some of his dialogue ended up sounding like a garbled mixture of drunken whispers and baby talk. Also, Hathaway, for my money, rocks it.

MB: She usually does, doesn't she ... If I seem a bit unenthusiastic about the movie, it's just that the

Synopsis

Eight movie years have passed since Batman (Christian Bale) last donned the cape. He's become a recluse, having assumed responsibility for District Attorney Harvey Dent's crimes in the hopes that if the Dent anti-crime act worked Gotham would be peaceful. It was successful until a cat burglar named Selina Kyle (Anne Hathaway) put into motion a series of events that would draw the caped Crusader from retirement to fight his mightiest foe yet, Bane (Tom Hardy).

last Batman was darn near perfect. It's a tough act to follow, but a few more action sequences and a more focused story would have helped.

Fred Willard caught in lewd act?

Actor Fred Willard, perhaps best-known as a dog-show announcer in the movie Best in Show, has been arrested on suspicion of committing a lewd act at a Hollywood adult theatre. Los Angeles police Sgt. Mark Ro says uniformed vice officers were conducting a routine investigation of the theatre shortly before 9 p.m. Wednesday and saw Willard engaging in a lewd act. Ro says Willard appeared to be alone. The 72-year-old actor was booked at the Hollywood police station on suspicion of committing a lewd act in public. Ro says Willard was released after midnight without posting bail.

Demi Moore. ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

Demi's kids won't 'completely abandon her': Source

While Demi Moore's relationship with her daughters Rumer, Scout and Tallulah Willis may be strained, they're certainly not as bad as Radar Online has reported.

Earlier this week, the website claimed the three girls were "seriously considering talking about a restraining order against Demi to stop her from contacting them," while a source tells the site that "Demi has been calling them incessantly and emailing them, leaving them tearful messages and begging them to call her, and the girls are sick of it."

But another source tells Us Weekly that things aren't that bad.

"It's true they're not all hunky-dory, getting along like they used to, but they're not about to go to those extremes," the source says.

"They love their mom at the end of the day, and they're never going to completely abandon her."

Depp single again

Johnny Depp's brief rebound with former co-star Amber Heard looks like it's over.

"Amber has never wanted that sort of attention," a source tells Radar-Online. "She prides herself on being free-thinking and independent — not some homewrecker trying to sleep her way to the top. As soon as the media started publicizing the romance, she told Johnny that she needed some space."

Now that right there is disarmingly respectable. Is that a sense of remorse we're feeling? Could it be shame?

Interesting. Johnny Depp, come make the media feel better.

Frankel's marriage on the upswing

MONICA
scene@metronews.ca

After only two years, Bethenny Frankel's marriage to Jason Hoppy was rumoured to be all but over. But now, the reality star says they're back on track after a rough patch earlier this year — well, probably.

"I think we have what it takes to make it work," Frankel tells People. "I don't have a backup plan. It's not like shopping for shoes and getting a new pair. That's not what it's about."

Frankel doesn't, however, gloss over their problems. "We've been scared," she admits. "The second year of marriage was not easy. We hit bottom, (but) we came out the other side."

We're impressed that they're working things out — especially when you consider what "rock bottom" means to someone whose resumé includes both Real Housewives and Skinnygirl Margaritas.

In lovelier news

We didn't mean to bum you out with crumbling reality TV marriages and Splenda-laced tequila. Let's check in with shiny happy couple Ryan Reynolds and Blake Lively, shall we?

"Blake and Ryan are so in love with each other," a source tells Radar Online.

"They're really cute and sweet and they're always talking about how they want to be together forever."

It's not the first time marriage rumours have surrounded the fairly new couple.

Earlier this week, Lively was cited as Reynolds' "wife" in a police report after the couple filed a complaint against a photographer.

Liquid Assets

The taste of summer in a wine bottle

LIQUID ASSETS
Peter Rockwell
@therealwineguy
peterrockwell@eastlink.ca

It's summertime and while the drinking may seem easy, divorcing Tom Cruise could prove simpler than finding a wine to match casual, warm afternoon dining.

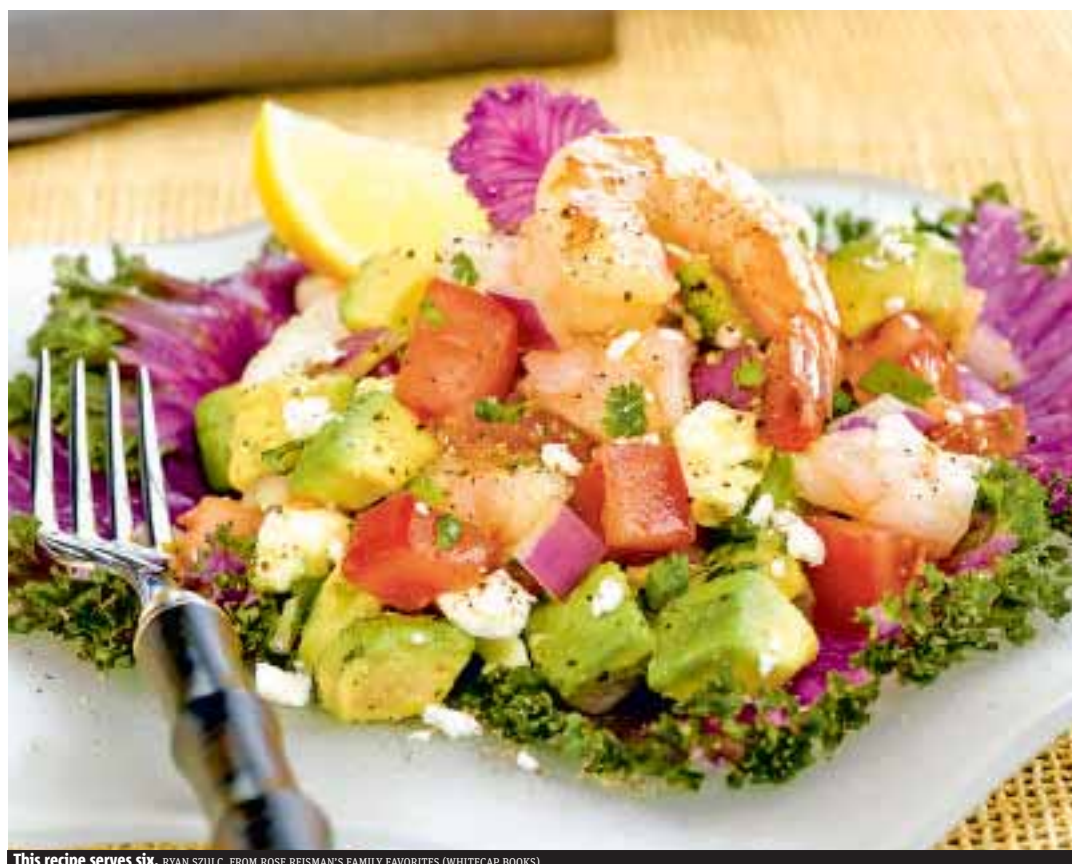

Of course while it all depends on the menu, most seasonal midday eats on my back deck are light and refreshing with a typical foundation of greens or something from the sea.

Though I hate being a weather wine snob, except for a fruity Pinot noir or gamay-based red (which I can chill), I'm all about whites this time of year. That's especially true for something fresh and zesty to match with salads (as long as I take it easy on the dressing), shellfish and simple chicken dishes.

Pinot grigio produces some great all-purpose wines in regions all over the world. But if you prefer a white with a tad more weight (but not gobs of wood or heavy fruit), reach for a glass of New Zealand sauvignon blanc.

Villa Maria Private Bin 2011 Sauvignon Blanc ($18.99 - $23.19) has all the grassy, gooseberry personality that's the hallmark of the grape accompanied by some food-friendly, lip-smacking acidity that, to put it simply, tastes like liquid summer.

Dice the avocado just before you're ready to serve the salad, or squeeze some lemon juice over it to prevent browning if you prepare it earlier in the day.

Always be sure to weigh your shrimp after it's been peeled. For each pound of peeled shrimp you need to purchase approximately 1¼ pounds of shrimp in the shell.

1. Spray non-stick skillet with cooking oil; place over medium-high heat. Cook shrimp just until pink, 3 minutes. Remove from the heat, cool and dice.

2. Combine shrimp with remaining ingredients in a large serving bowl and mix well. Serve immediately.

Survey

Canadians want more info

Canadians want more nutritional information about menu items at all restaurants, not just fast-food eateries, according to a recent survey.

Two-thirds of Canadian adults said they liked the idea of seeing information about fat and sodium levels at all restaurants. And women were most likely to indicate such a preference, the Harris/Decima research showed.

About 65 per cent of the Canadians polled between the ages of 35 to 44 supported having the information, as did 71 per cent of those 45 to 54, and 53 per cent of those aged 55 to 64.

A picture is worth 1,000 words ...

Yes, that is the actual title of this art exhibit. But since the works on display "speak volumes," it may be worth checking out. The great thing about the Winnipeg Art Gallery is no matter what exhibit they have going on, it is always a chance to do something out of the ordinary — and possibly see something extraordinary.

Deer + Almond = delicious

This new restaurant in the heart of downtown is serving up tapas style plates that will make you want to come back time and time again. My hat goes off to chef/owner Mandel Hitzer, who has turned a greasy spoon into a funky, modern and sophisticated space. Must haves: calamari served up with ghost chilies, fresh honey and citrus aioli, flash-fried scallops with ash aioli, jalapeno ice and fresh avocado — so good! Also worth trying is the quail — it's seared to perfection with several side options to please your taste buds.

Eat your heart out Winnipeg

Seriously, now is the time to dine! Ciao magazine presents Eat Winnipeg, which invites you to experience impressive three-course meals at restaurants around town such as Brooklyn's Bistro (a place I still have to check out), Fusion Grill, Amici, Café Carlo, Sydney's and Hermano's, just to name a few, for only $36. It's a great opportunity to try a few different things you may have never ordered. I smell a date night coming up ... just saying.

IM really looking forward to this one

After the enormously successful Final Frontier World Tour 2010-11, IM is back on the road this summer with a stop in Winnipeg on Tuesday. The Maiden England World Tour is supposed to be similar in terms of production and content to the original 1988 concert video shot on the Seventh Son of a Seventh Son Tour. I am hopeful that true Iron Maiden fans will understand my reference.

Beachside flicks can't be bad

From July 25 to 29, the quaint town of Gimli is the place to be for 'Peggers' wanting to watch a movie on the beach. No joke, pack your comfiest fold-up chair, your favourite movie snacks, bring a few friends, and head out to Gimli where you can watch countless local, Canadian and international films beachside. Not a bad way at all to spend a night out doing something different, wouldn't you agree? If you're looking for a party, kick-off night on Wednesday is always a good time!

Saddle up ya'll

Manitoba's only pro rodeo is back for the 49th time. Events include saddle bronc riding, bull riding, tie-down roping, steer wrestling, ladies barrel racing and, my personal fave, bareback riding. The Manitoba Stampede and Exhibition is a great time for all who go, and if you don't like hotdogs, don't worry — they have everything from samosas to homemade perogies just like Great Aunt Anastazja used to make. If you make it down Saturday, be sure to check out the RCMP Musical Ride.

The inside track on Katherine Legge

Girl's got drive.

Metro talks to one of the few women to make the top ranks of pro motor racing

KATHY
life@metronews.ca

"I know I race like a girl," says a promotional slogan for Katherine Legge. "Try and keep up."

Not many can keep up with Legge, though. The 32-year-old is one of very few women in the top ranks of professional motor racing, the first woman to win the prestigious Rising Star award from the British Racing Drivers' Club and a competitor in the IndyCar Series — one of the jewels in the crown of professional racing.

Legge will be one of 26 drivers competing in this Sunday's Edmonton Indy. After that, the British native (she now lives in — where else? — Indianapolis) is off to the Indy Grand Prix of Sonoma in California. Here's an inside-track look at a self-confessed adrenalin-junkie.

How did you get started?

I got started in go-karts. We went on a family vacation to

Legge ready to race. HANDOUT

Spain and my dad, my uncle and me — I was nine years old — went to one of those "fun car" places. I loved it. Back in England, Dad and I spent every weekend racing, from Friday night to Sunday night, from when I was nine to when I was 19.

When did you decide this was what you wanted to do?

I made the jump (to professional racing) when I won a scholarship to race in Formula Ford (an entry-level racing series) in 2005 when I came over to the U.S. I won my first race that year and came third overall in the Atlantics championship. That made a career possible.

Is your dad still involved?

My dad makes the trip from England to wherever I'm racing — North America, Australia, China. He's broke because of it. He can take credit for (my career success) because, yes, I've been the one driving the car but he's been the one behind me, giving me advice, propping me up and keeping me on a level ground.

Do women face particular hurdles in motor sports?

Absolutely, but it's changing. When I was on the way up, women were very much a novelty. Now there are more women in racing, and more being done to help them. FIA (Federation Internationale de l'Automobile, which governs auto-racing events around the world) has started a female racing commission.

Your fiancé, Peter Terting, is also a race-car driver. Is he as good as you?

That depends on who you ask! It's a good (thing) we don't race in the same series, because I don't think we would still be planning our wedding if that were the case.

What will you do after racing?

I haven't thought about it. I don't want to think about it. But one of my passions is letting girls and young women believe that they can be anything they want to be, that they can follow their dreams. I've just been announced as the female driver ambassador for the FIA. And I'm also an official spokesperson for the U.S. Girl Scouts' STEM program, which encourages girls in science, technology, engineering and math. When I stop racing I think I will be more active in (such activities).

Have you brought any

young women into the sport?

I didn't set out to be a role model, I set out to be a race-car driver. But I have had young girls come up to me at the track and say, 'I'm racing because of you,' or 'you're my hero.' I think, wow. That's a lot of responsibility right there. So I've tried to conduct myself in such a manner that shows girls that whatever they want to do, go for it.

Starting QB to be determined for Bombers' home opener

CFL. Paul LaPolice undecided on who will take snaps next week against the Eskimos

Coach Paul LaPolice isn't saying who will start at quarterback for the Winnipeg Blue Bombers in their home opener next week.

With Buck Pierce out of action for the next month, Alex Brink completed only nine of 34 passes Wednesday as the Bombers fell to 0-4, losing 25-22 to the Toronto Argonauts.

"He hit a nice throw to (Clarence) Denmark," LaPolice said as he arrived at the Winnipeg airport Thursday, when asked for some positives about Brink's performance.

"I think he stood in there. He hurt his groin a little bit himself so he was kind of banged up, but I want to look at the film and go from there."

Brink admits he had trouble getting anything going against the Toronto defence.

"I don't know if I ever really found that rhythm," he said.

"It's tough when they're playing that much man coverage, a lot of press man, they're making contact with our receivers. It really throws your timing off.

"They're a good defence and they had a good game plan for us."

If Brink doesn't start, it's likely the nod would go to Joey Elliott, who sits third on the Bombers quarterback depth chart.

Because of what was expected to be a delay opening their new stadium, the Bombers opted to play their first four games on the road. They eventually gave up and decided they would play all their home games at the old Canad Inns Stadium.

That means their first regular-season home game is next Thursday when the Edmonton Eskimos come to town. Winnipeg was crushed 42-10 when the two teams met last Friday in Edmonton.

The already lengthy Bombers injury list grew Wednesday with the addition of receiver Terrence Edwards, safety Ian Logan and defensive lineman Brandon Collier. LaPolice says Collier could be gone long-term. THE CANADIAN PRESS

BRINK'S YOUR STARTER DESPITE STRUGGLES

Pierce needs to be given bench role, Bruce blossoming with Lions and Roughriders refusing to go green

CFL EXTRA POINTS
Dan Toth
winnipeg@metronews.ca

Winnipeg Blue Bombers: He struggled against Toronto Wednesday night, but it's time to anoint Alex Brink the Blue Bombers starting QB and tag Buck Pierce as the full-time backup (whenever he returns from his latest injury). Pierce has missed almost half of Winnipeg's games with injuries since 2010 (his latest is torn ligaments in his left foot). It's clear, despite his abundant talent, Pierce will never be a rugged and reliable starter in this league.

Saskatchewan Roughriders: You can't blame the top-ranked Riders for wearing their new white-on-white-on-white uniforms on the road. They entered Thursday night as the only undefeated CFL club, so no need to change road gear, but the bleached visitor duds make them look like ice cream salesmen working Canada's toughest neighbourhood. What's wrong with a little green just for old time's sake?

B.C. Lions: Lions receiver Arland Bruce is thriving in B.C., thanks in part to opposing defences focusing on Geroy Simon and top-notch passing from Travis Lulay. Now Bruce needs just 20 yards receiving Friday night against Edmonton to move past former Hamilton Hall of Famer Tommy-Joe Coffey for 12th on the all-time receiving yards list.

Calgary Stampeders: It's good to see Saskatchewan finally announce plans for a new stadium for Regina in 2017 as no group of fans is more deserving. Seeing as how countless Riders fans now reside in Calgary, could the well-heeled Rider Nation also pony up a few million for renovations to aging McMahon Stadium?

Edmonton Eskimos: It's hard to believe GM Eric Tillman has said he regrets trading QB Ricky Ray to Toronto. Granted, his comments came in the wake of a blowout loss in Regina, but the Eks have since improved to 2-1 under Steven Jyles and Tillman's comments have undermined the confidence of his new starter.

Montreal Alouettes: Als fans shouldn't be too confident a new four-year contract for head coach Marc Trestman ensures the very popular bench boss remains in Montreal for the duration of his deal. It's every American coach's dream to land a job in the NFL and every CFL head man has an "out" clause in the event a team from The Show comes calling. It could happen to Trestman.

Bisons join forces with ex-Bomber Khan

After retiring from the Winnipeg Blue Bombers less than a year ago, Obby Khan is getting back into the game of football — this time as a coach. It was announced Thursday that Khan will join the University of Manitoba coaching staff. He will work primarily with the team's offensive line and assist offensive line coach Terry Watson. "Bison football is certainly excited to have the opportunity to bring Obby onto the coaching staff," said long-time Bisons head coach Brain Dobie in a press release. "As we begin the 2012 season, Obby has been a longtime friend of mine and our coaching staff and has been a mentor to our Bison players."

Hayden tones down the hype for London

Swimming.

Mission, B.C., medal hopeful looks to put disappointment of past Olympics behind him

Brent Hayden, a silver medalist at last year's world swimming championships, has been to two Olympics already.

They weren't much fun.

In 2004, Hayden swam poorly, which was the very least of it.

Just before the end of the Games, he found himself in the middle of an early-morning street battle between Greek police and anarchists. The then-19-year-old was pulled into the middle of it, had the boots put to him, was cuffed and eventually released. Though Canada requested some sort of official accounting, Hayden received no satisfaction.

The "riot thing" is how Hayden remembers it now. "That put a huge damper on Athens for me," Hayden said.

Four years later, he arrived in Beijing as the biggest star of Canada's swim team, a defending world champion at the sport's glamour event — the 100-metre freestyle.

Hayden expected two medals. He made the mistake of talking about two medals — in the 100-metre and the four-by-100 relay.

He dropped out of the 200-metre freestyle in order to concentrate on the relay.

In the 100-metre, he didn't qualify for the finals.

"I got caught watching (eventual silver medalist Eamon) Sullivan. I lost focus for just that one instant and then ..." said Hayden, drifting off.

Apparently, Sullivan was thinking of Hayden, too. The Australian set a world record in that semifinal heat. Sullivan may have cost himself gold by putting out too much effort too early in order to best the Canadian who'd topped him at the world championships.

Then Hayden's relay team rolled a fourth.

It was a disappointing Olympics for Canada in the London favourite

Since he's a come-from-behind swimmer, Hayden is a long-shot in the 50-metre.

- But in the 100-metre, he can take his pick of rivals. The favourite is 21-year-old Australian James Magnussen, pictured, a world champion and expected poster boy for the London Games.

- The men who finished after Hayden at the world championships, France's William Meynard and Brazil's Cesar Cielo, are also in tight.

- At last year's big event in Shanghai, only six-hundredths of a second separated second and fourth.

Tennis. Nadal a no-go to defend Olympic crown

Defending champion Rafael Nadal pulled out of the London Olympics on Thursday with an undisclosed injury, leaving the tennis competition without one of its leading stars and robbing Spain's team of its flag-bearer for the opening ceremony.

Nadal won the French Open for a record seventh time this year but has struggled with left-knee problems at times during the season. Shortly after winning his 11th Grand Slam title at Roland Garros, he lost to 100th-ranked Lukas Rosol in the second round at Wimbledon.

Nadal has not played since.

The third-ranked Nadal said Thursday he wasn't in condition to compete at the Olympic tennis tournament — which also will be held at Wimbledon.

"I have to think about my companions. I can't be selfish and I have to think of what's best for Spanish sport, especially tennis and Spanish players, and give fellow sportsmen with better preparation the chance to compete," Nadal said in a statement.

"I tried to hurry my preparations and training to the very last minute, but it was not to be."

The 26-year-old Spaniard has won two Wimbledon titles and claimed gold at the 2008 Beijing Olympics.

Security. Officials add troops in case manpower shortages get worse

There's nearly a week to go before the Olympics kick off in London and British officials are stuck playing defence.

On Thursday, the country's Olympics secretary said 1,200 extra troops were put on standby in case embarrassing manpower shortages get any worse, while U.K. border agents announced a strike for the day before the Games begin.

The one-two punch of bad news comes with only eight days to go, unbalancing a government which might have hoped to bask in the glow of pre-Olympic buildup. By far, the most embarrassing episode has been the inability of security

Olympic secretary Jeremy Hunt to Sky News on adding 1,200 standby troops for security contractor G4S PLC to deliver on its promise to supply about 10,400 guards to help keep the Games safe — a last-minute admission that has forced the government to call in 3,500 soldiers to help meet the shortfall.

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

Be careful what you say today. It might offend co-workers and those in positions of power. The fact is that some people can't handle the truth, no matter how much you try to wrap it up in sugar coating.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

You seem to see plots and conspiracies wherever you look. You see way too much! Yes, it's possible that someone is planning to make life difficult for you, but more likely it's your imagination playing tricks on you.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

Do something that brings the smiles back to the faces of those you live, work and do business with. The world isn't really such a bad place. In fact at times it's a lot of fun, so stop taking life so seriously.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

Don't give up on a plan that does not seem to be making much progress. The planets indicate you are not far away from a breakthrough. If you admit defeat now, all your hard work will be wasted.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

The moon's eclipse of Mercury means you will find it hard to commit yourself to anything of substance today. The more others pressure you to take sides, the more you should sit on the fence. It's a safe place.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

You seem prone to negative thoughts at the moment, even though there is no evidence you have anything to fear. If you want to feel more secure, avoid situations where you are not fully in control of what's going on.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

If you give way by even a small amount today, you will be expected to do it again. Before you know it, you will have lost most of what you gained in recent weeks.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

The moon's eclipse of mind planet Mercury warns you may have overlooked some small but important detail. Before going any further, retrace your footsteps and see what it could be. You'll be glad you did.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

You may want to confide in a friend but the planets warn that isn't such a good idea. Some people can be awful blabbermouths and the last thing you want is for everyone to know your secrets.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

It can be easy sometimes to wallow in self-pity and over the next 24 hours you will have to make a conscious effort to look on the bright side. Never forget that life is supposed to be fun.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

Someone in a position of power will give you a hard time today, most likely because you refuse to toe the line and do what they expect of you. Good for you. Don't let them push you around.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

The reason why something no longer works for you is because times have changed but you have stayed locked in the past. What can you do to bring yourself into the 21st century? Start doing it today.
